Pope Benedict
60 Years
a Priest!

On June 29, 1951 a young Joseph Ratzinger became Fr. Ratzinger, ordained to the priesthood after years of study in Munich, Germany. The young Ratzinger, who we know today as Pope Benedict XVI grew up with a father who was a policeman and a mother who, before marriage, worked as a cook in a number of hotels.

Joseph Ratzinger's youthful years were not easy, experiencing the Nazi regime and a hostile attitude towards people of faith, especially Catholics. The future pope has told the story of witnessing Nazis beating the parish priest prior to the celebration of the Eucharist.

We don't have a crystal ball to see what's around the corner but it was clear that God had a plan for Fr. Ratzinger who went on to become a well known and respected professor of theology, providing notable contributions to the Second Vatican Council.

Much has been written regarding his contributions to the church as Archbishop and later Cardinal, well known in the Roman Curia, most notably as head of the Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith, among other high profile positions.

As Catholics, we see Pope Benedict XVI as the Vicar of Christ for our family of faith - it may be difficult to picture him as a young priest, an empty book with chapters of ministry and pastoral service waiting to be written. Now we know that this book is indeed filled with pages upon pages of service, counsel, prayer and witness - all elements that each one of us is called to as people of faith.

The Roman Missal

By Neil Mc Carthy, Archdiocese of Toronto Blog
<http://archdioceseoftoronto.blogspot.com/2011/06/roman-missal-updates.html>

This September will see plenty of action when it comes to the implementation of the new translation of the Roman Missal. At present, parishes have been provided with a number of resources should they wish to get started on educating their parishioners, music ministers and all those who will be impacted by this historic change.

At the Catholic Media Convention in Pittsburgh last week, I had the chance to attend a most interesting workshop on the new translation from the USCCB Director of Liturgy. We face similar challenges on both sides of the border and the United States and Canada are both beginning official implementation of the new Roman Missal on the same date, the first Sunday of Advent in late November 2011.

Bishop John Boissonneau, Vicar of Liturgy and Chair of the Archdiocesan Roman Missal Implementation Committee sent communication last week to all parishes in the Archdiocese. An excerpt from Bishop Boissonneau's communique to parishes reads as follows:

We have been informed by the Canadian Conference of Catholic Bishops (CCCB) that both the English translation of the revised Roman Missal and General Instruction (GIRM) will take effect in dioceses throughout Canada on the First Sunday of Advent (November 27/28, 2011). Archbishop Collins has authorized that parishes may begin to learn the new, sung mass settings and employ them in the liturgy as of September 25, 2011. Other than these settings, the newly translated prayers (collects, prefaces, etc.) of the Missal may not be used without specific permission before the First Sunday of Advent.

The communication also included a link for those wishing to delve into more in depth study this summer regarding the Roman Missal, with suggested resources available to review at www.archtoronto.org/romanmissal/resources.htm.

You can be assured that you will be hearing plenty of information about the new translation this fall, with bulletin inserts, pew cards, catechesis and other "hands on" information regarding this historic moment of evangelization and catechesis for North America.

The important thing for all to keep in mind is that we're not just changing some of the words that are used in the celebration of mass, we hope the experience will provide an opportunity for Eucharistic renewal, to allow all Catholics to reflect on how we can all engage in more active participation in the pinnacle of our faith journey as we gather as a faith community each week.

Stay tuned as you'll be hearing a whole lot more both in the Archdiocesan website and your own parish in the months ahead!

Blessings on your Marriage
