I Think God Might be Calling Me to Religious Life

Fr. Chris Lemieux is the Director of the Vocations Office of the Archdiocese of Toronto. As we continue to celebrate the Month of Vocations, we asked him about the steps that women can take if they feel God might be calling them to the religious life.

What do you say to someone who calls you and says "I'm not sure, but I think God might be calling me to be a nun?"

I arrange a meeting with her so that I can talk to her in person. Meeting with someone can give me an initial sense of whether or not she should inquire further into the process for discerning religious life. If it isn't where she's called, that's perfectly fine.

Does your office have information about Come and See weekends for women?

Yes, the vocations directors from the various religious orders often share their Come and See weekend dates with me so that I can pass the information along to the women I speak with. I think Come and See weekends are great and I invite women to contact the communities they're interested in.

What do you want to say to those women who are on the fence about whether or not to call you?

It takes a lot of courage to call me. I've been putting a lot of focus on getting out to parishes and meeting people. When you can put a face to the name, it makes it easier to give me a call. Also, I'm not in the recruiting business. My role is to determine what the Lord's will is for that person's life. If it isn't God's will for her to be a religious sister, that's okay. But always take that first step and give me a call.

How can a woman interested in religious life contact you?

The number at the Vocations Office is 416-968-0997 and the email address is vocations@archtoronto.org

Working wonders for those in our community...

"I searched the internet for "help young mother pregnant Mississauga" and I found Vita Centre. I was shocked to find out that there were complete strangers willing to help and guide young mothers to success. Even the resources that I have learned about from my counsellor has saved me so much time and hassle, and has given me hope that things will get better no matter how tough it may feel." shares Alyssa, who as a young mom, is now experiencing a brighter future, thanks to ShareLife-supported Vita Centre.

Last year, over 6,300 young parents received the care, counselling and educational support they needed to care for themselves and their new families.
